ocratic certain.

Taylor county, the home of Mr. Martin, gives Col. Lamon a majority of about 95 over Mr. Martin. At the State election she gave Goff a majority of 214 over Mathews-thus showing a difference of 119 in favor of Mr. Martin. On the other hand Berkeley county, the home of Mr. Lamon, gives Mr. Martin 212 majority, and at the State election only gave Gen. Mathews 272 majority-a difference of 60 in favor of Mr. Lamon. In other words Berkeley county, with a voting population of nearly 3,500, gives Mr. Lamon an excess over his party vote for governor of 60 whilst Taylor county, with a voting populasonal popularity," Mr. Martin, our Congressman elect, has the advantage of Col. Lamon more than fice to two.

SOJTH CAROLINA.

Next to our rejoicing over the election of Tilden and Hendricks to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States, we rejoice in the election of Wade Hampton in South Carolina. To give some idea of the sort of man Mr. Hampton is, and the canvass he has made, we clip these closing sentences of a letter from him published in the New York Tribune of last Friday. He says:

"We own by far the larger portion of the property of the State. We pay the taxes and bear the burdens, and to us good government is a necessity. The first element of good government is a harmony among the races who must live together, and to its preservation we are bound by every obligation of interest. Whatever else may be said, every candid man must recognize the forbearance of the white people of this State under provocations to which American-citizens are rarely subjected. I have pledged myself, and the Democratic party is pledged, to uphold every right guaranteed by the laws of the State and of the United States, and to see that equal, impartial justice is administered without regard to color, class, or party. We can redeem these pledges, preserve peace, insure protection to every citizen, white or colored, and make this State once more honest, tranquil and prosperous. That and that alone in the object of this canvass."

WEST VIRGINIA STATE GRANGE.-The State Grange of West Virginia held its annual session in Parkersburg on the 1st inst. The meeting was quite interesting, and the different portions of the State were pretty generally represented.

The officers elected were as follows : B. M. Kitchen, of Berkeley county, Master; L. M. Stone, of Wetzel county, Overseer; C. T. Butler, of Jefferson county, Lecturer ; J. G. Garrett, Harrison county, Steward; G. H. Davis, of Doddridge county, Assistant Steward ; P. T. L. Queen, of Lewis county, Chaplain; B. Cushwa, of Berkeley county, Treasurer; James E. Hall, of Barbour county, Secretary; Sanford Mason, of Barbour county, Gatckeeper.

Besides these are four lady officers whose names were not obtained.

The Executive Committee, formerly consisting of three members, was enlarged to five, to better represent the various interests of the State. The following were elected: Col. R. W. Baylor, of Jefferson county, Chairman; M. Crow, of Jackson county, for two years; J. D. Whitman, of Ohio county, for two years; J. H. Light, of Berkeley county, for one year ; Samuel Hatfield, of Ritchio county, for one year.

Rockingham county, Va., has two precincts at which Hayes did not receive a single vote, and another at which only one vote was cast for the Republican ticket. Out of 4,014 wotes cast in the county, 3,503 were given for | 000. Over 1,000,000 more votes were cast Tilden and Hendricks.

A RAP AT MR. EVARTS.

Col. J. Fairfax McLaughlin, of New York City, well known to many of our citizens, and whom it will be remembered made us a stirring speech just before the October Elec-tions, made one of his most telling speeches at the monster demonstration at Tammany Hall on Thursday night, the 2nd instant. Mr. McLaughlin has taken a very active part in the campaign, speaking in New Jersey and elsewhere, as well as at home in New York. He paid his respects to Mr. Evarts in the following stinging and caustic style, as reported by the New York Express:

I think it was Edmund Burke who said that the practice of law had a tendency to mark. Mr. Evarts was retained by some Republican politicians who carry on the bu siness of banking in this city, to make this speech for them, and whether the usual retaining fee which the gentleman knows as well how to exact was waived, for the contingent fee to follow (in the event of the election of Governor Hayes) in the shape of a Cabinet portfolio or a Foreign Mission, I shall not too curiously inquire. The hired eulogist of Henry Ward Beecher cannot injure the Democratic party by his abuse. Last year he stood on the same platform where he figured last night and denounced Grant as a military despot and usurper. He de nounced Sheridan's invasion of Louisiana as a deadly blow at the cardinal principles of liberty. The echoes of that denunciation seemed to ring still through the walls of Cooper Institute when the pimes veice was raised to mock them, and to lake good men feel ashamed for the versatile advocate. The papers which attributed dishonest motives to Mr. Evarts's denunciation of the Republican party in 1875, and imputed it to the soured temper of a place-hunter whom the President had disappointed, came out this morning in hysterics of praise over the mild apostate who had recented the opinion that the military should not be used in time of peace. It was a melancholy sight, fellowcitizens, to see this ingenious lawyer spending his strength to defend a party which is strangling South Carolina to death with the same strong hand with which it struck down Louisiana two years ago, and against which Mr. Evarts then made ringing protest. I leave that gentleman to settle it with his honor whether the attitude he has taken before this community is consistent or patri-otic, manly or straightforward. If the insinuations he made against Mr. Tilden had any foundation to justify them, then they should not have been uttered as half formed hints with sly winks and cunning nods and mysterious shrugs, which seems to imply:

"if I chose to speak—but no, I will not; I know a great deal that I must not tell; Mr. Tilden is a neighbor of mine, and it does not become a man like me to speak ill of my neighbors."- Now, my fellow-citizens, if Mr. Evarts is afraid to sneer himself, he ought not teach the rest to do it. That sort of thing might be expected in a campaign supplement of the Times, or from the lips of the demagogue Blaine, but it is unworthy of a high-minded gentleman, and utterly destitute of the quality of courage. In another part of his speech the attorney for the Republican bankers tells us Mr. Tilden is an excellent man to crush Tweed and Democratic thieves, but that it would be a calamity to take him out of this State where he has done so much good, and to send him to Washingvotes-or considerably less than two percent.; ton where he would do so much harm. Now. fellow citizens, I challenge Bob Ingersoll, the most blatant cutpurse who has appeared tion of but little over 2,000, gives Mr. Mar- on the Republican stump during this defamtin an excess over his party vote for gover- atory campaign, to utter a meaner or more nor of 119 votes-or about five per cent.- | cowardly speech than that. But let me as We give this for the benefit of those who | sure Mr. Evarts that Mr. Tilden has a high were given to harping about Col. Lamon's er quarry in view than to split hairs with monularity before the election so that popularity, before the election, so they Tweed he only cut off a branch of the spread may see that if there is any merit in "per- ing evil of corruption. He has the axe now to the root, and lo ! the giant tree topples to its fall. It is not the man now but the system he is after. I fear Mr. Evarts is going to have another eye-opener. Tweed was a great rogue and the captain of a band of rogues, but Grantism, the parent stem. The Republican party has not only like Tweed encouraged stealing, but like the old Greeks it has made a god of theft. The next time this latest convert and disciple to Grantism goes into the Radical pagoda to pray, he will probably find that the inconoclast has been there before him, and that he has shattered into clay the divinity which he has come to worship. Fellow-citizens let us bag the idols next Tuesday, and Mr. Tilden will take care of the idolators.

THE ERA OF GOOD FEELING IN NORTH CAROLINA .- A dispatch from Raleigh, N. C., November 8, says:

"The issue of the State and national elections of Tuesday signalized the advent of an era of good feeling in North Carolina. The unprecedented spectacle was presented here this afternoon of a monster mass meeting of citizens of both parties and races, assembled to exchange felicitations upon the result. It was addressed by prominent Republicans as well as Democrats. A brilliant congratulatory speech was made by Colonel Thomas C. Fuller, of Ruleigh. Col. Fuller eloquently eulogized the American Union, which he said must be held supreme forever, and essured the colored people that all their rights and franchises should be sacredly maintained.—

"I tell you, colored men, in the presence of our splendid and sweeping victory, that the white men of North Carolina will protect and defend your liberties always and against all comers, even with our heart's blood if need-

R chardson was seconded by James H. Harris, the talented colored member of the Republican Executive Committee Gen. Wm. R. Cox, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, indorsed the sentiments expressed by Col. Fuller, and many other speakers of differing political affiliations followed The great meeting concluded at a late hour amid enthusiastic acclamations and with hearty and unanimous good feeling.

The light shone-ob, so softly—
From the shadows of the West.
And it touched my darling's eyelids
With the blessed balm of rest.
Oh! that light so mild and tender,
I have often thought like then,
That an ancel touched my darling
And he charmed away her pain.

For she slept the last sweet slumber That a weary mortal knows:
And her face grew strangely quiet
In a deep and calm repose.
Yes! she slept to wake at morning
On the calm, eternal shore,
To a new and strange existence
Full of rest lorever more!
